I would like to take this opportunity to thank all Hellas fans for their support and loyalty which, over the years they have given to the club.

Last year it was a tough year, but owing to the hard work of a very good committee and the loyalty of our supporters. I believe it finished up to be a good and successful year.

The coming season, does not seem to be an easy one, but I am confident that if we all work together, as in the past, I have no doubt that by the end of the year we will be at the top again.

C. CHRISTOPHER
Chairman

I am greatly honoured to be President of South Melbourne Hellas Soccer Club and I can pledge to our members that I will be doing my utmost to ensure our future prosperity.

There have been many tough times over the years but we have weathered them and survived due to the commitment and dedication of many people connected with the club. I firmly believe that the reward will eventually come in the form of success on the field for 1986.

Special Message from the Chairman

I hope that all Hellas fans will enjoy our special publication of the 1986 Hellas journal.

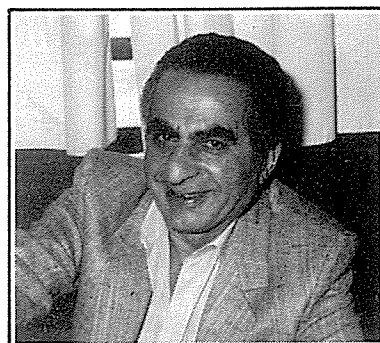

I believe that such a publication is long overdue and will fulfill a demand that has been neglected over a number of years.

Our extensive player profiles include accurate details of height, weight, position, likes and dislikes and much more, due to an extensive effort of our team manager Mr. P. Pallas. We have included many of the unusual snippets from our history and I trust that these will stir the memories and fascination of our readers.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the advertisers and sponsors for participating in this edition especially "Dodoni" cheeses (most popular Greek cheeses overseas and Australia) agents—ELCO FOOD Co. P/L.

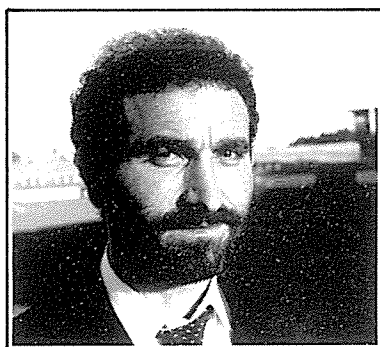

In conclusion a special thanks to Som Trading Co. Pty. Ltd. for putting this publication together.

"Meanwhile sit back and enjoy the story of Hellas".

C. CHRISTOPHER

New Team Manager for 1986

I am greatly honoured to my new position of team manager from my previous position of social president. I know how tough this position is and I hope to live up to expectations of the committee and Hellas fans by doing my utmost in assisting the coach John Margaritis and the team for top success this year.

Thanks for the past support and I feel confident that I will receive maximum support for 1986.

THE HISTORY OF HELLAS

Garry McDowall in full flight, a very valuable and reliable player.

By most criteria, South Melbourne Hellas is the No. 1 soccer club in Australia.

Which other club can boast of such a concentration of honors in a history spanning only 26 years?

And there can be no doubt that over that period, Hellas has been the flagship of Greek involvement in Australian soccer.

It has consistently drawn the biggest crowds in the country, reflecting the enthusiasm of the Greek community's support for the game, especially in Melbourne, which has one of the biggest Greek communities in the world.

Charlie Egan put it succinctly when he said recently: "To most players, Hellas is the top club. Everyone aspires to play for Hellas, and when you leave, you are taking a step down."

Sure, Hellas has had its problems, just like any other club. Perhaps the club expected the National League competition, when it was formed in 1977, to be much stronger than it turned out to be. Hence, in hindsight, it need not have parted company with the stalwarts of the seventies — Jim Armstrong, Steve Walker, Jimmy Mackay, Peter Bourne. Had they remained, the backbone of the team would have been intact for a few more years and a strong body of new players could have been built around it.

As it was, the necessity to build a new team resulted in wildly fluctuating fortunes. The low point came in 1977 when the team finished last. Typical, however, of Hellas's greatness, it picked itself up off the floor and, under the expert guidance of John Margaritis, who is back as coach this season, rose to third place in 1980 and second in 1981. Since then, Hellas has not been outside the top six.

The club's greatest achievement was winning the 1984 NSL championship by beating Sydney Olympic 4-2 on aggregate home and away in the final. Charlie Egan scored twice in the first leg in Melbourne, while Oscar Crino and John Yzendoorn were the scorers in the second leg at St. George Stadium in Sydney.

In addition to winning the 1984 national championship, Hellas finished on top of the NSL Southern Division ladder in both 1984 and 1985.

But those successes are merely an extension of the club's spectacular achievements since 1960, its first year of competition.

In that time, it has won seven Victorian State League championships; two Dockerty Cups and four Ampol Cups.

Hellas's administration has been among the most stable in Australian soccer. The tradition laid down by the "father" of Hellas, the late Theo Marmaras, and maintained for many years by Sam Papasavas, now chairman of the NSL, is today being continued by president Jim Diamataris, chairman Chris Christopher, vice-president Billy Georgantis, treasurer George Vassilopoulos and social secretary Pierre Pallas, among others.

Some of the leading coaches of their time have had charge of the Hellas team: Rale Rasic; Greek international Con Nestoridis who was player-coach; Manny Poulakakis who coached the Victorian State team of Stankovic, Janczyk, Falzon and Zientara; Vic Janczyk himself; Lou Brocic who made his name in top-level European soccer and of course, John Margaritis, the former Hellas midfielder, former Greek international and 1980 Australian Coach of the Year.

Similarly, Hellas has employed many of the all-time great players of Australian soccer.

The Socceroos on Hellas's books have included: Alan Davidson, Peter Ollerton, Branko Buljevic, George Christopoulos, Oscar Crino, Duncan Cummings, Kris Kalifatidis, Jim Mackay, Frank Micic, Jack Reilly, Billy Rogers, John Stevenson and Jim Armstrong.

And the present Hellas squad includes no less than eight senior and two youth Socceroos! Their exploits are detailed in our player profiles.

Then there were the greatest of the imports, men whose exploits thrilled the fans and established a standard of excellence for the others to follow.

Nestoridis and Margaritis remain the greatest of them all. Other stars from overseas have included: Malcolm Macdonald who played guest games for Hellas in 1977; Sam Salabasidis and Jim Pyrgolios from Panathinaikos; Andreas Roussis from Apollon who still is deeply involved with Hellas; Alun Evans from Liverpool and others almost too numerous to mention — Leo Damianakos, John Anderson, Tommy Anderson, Tony Hatzieleftheriou, Tony Karagiannis, Harry Vamvakas, Stefan Fortumanos, Peter Tsitsos, Ernie Acerkley, Stratos Kalogeros, Boulis Kamboropoulos and winger Tsolakis whose son Peter is a rising star at Heidelberg-Alexander.

Others who deserve a special mention are Mike Mandalis and Arthur Xanthopoulos who rose through the Hellas juniors to become stars with the senior team and with Victoria; Ulysses Kokkinos who was one of the most colourful characters at Hellas and who also represented the State, and of course John Bedford, bought from Box Hill as a winger and still the longest-serving player Hellas has had.

It was in 1959 that Hellas was formed by the amalgamation of Hellenic and Yarra Park. But the club had no home ground, so a few months later it linked up with South Melbourne United which used Middle Park. The driving force behind the amalgamation was the late Theo Marmaras, then president of Hellenic, who went on to become chairman and president of the Victorian Soccer Federation and one of the leading lights of the Australian Soccer Federation. Present at the time of amalgamation was Hellas's current president, Jim Diamataris, who had played as a midfielder for Hellenic from 1953. He stayed on to serve on the committees of Marmaras, Papasavas and Leo Anexakis before taking over the top job himself.

Of the three clubs that linked up to form South Melbourne Hellas, South Melbourne United was the oldest, having won the Harry Armstrong Reserve Cup in 1933, when it formed a combined team with Royal Caledonians.

One of many great saves from Peter Laumets.

Yarra Park and Hellenic had had unsuccessful seasons in the State League, Hellenic finishing second-last in 1958 and Yarra Park last in 1959.

In 1960, its first year on the field, Hellas clinched the First Division North championship by no less than 12 points, winning all of its games except for one 3-3 draw with Corio.

The first State League championship, under anny Poulakakis, came in 1962.

Then, from 1964 to 1966, the club won three championships in a row — the third of them under Nestoridis who cam to the club at the age of 37 after having starred for AEK Athens and the Greek national team. His skill still is the stuff of legends. He may have scored two or three goals directly from corners but the fans will tell you that he did it 12 times, or even 20!

Hellas had to wait until 1972 for its next championship. Giovanni Batticciotto and Bill Hasapis, both teenagers, were introduced that year as the new full backs and Ian Marshall and Beter Bourne were the brains in the midfield, but the man who mattered most was striker Armstrong, for Hellas won the title on goal average from George Cross, and Armstrong scored 17 of those goals.

Young Xanthopoulos established himself as a star in the 1974 championship-winning team and Arm-strong, with 22 goals, was top scorer in the League.

Jimmy Mackay, the man whose goal had put the Socceroos into the 1974 World Cup finals in West Germany, joined Hellas in 1975, after a season with Sydney Hakoah. He along with Duncan Cummings ($10,000 from Melbourne-Hungaria) and Peter Ollerton ($9000 from APIA) were driving forces in the team that won not only the 1976 Victorian State League title, but also an unofficial Australian championship tie against St. George Budapest. In a two-leg challenge, Hellas drew with Budapest 1-1 in Sydney and won 2-1 at Olympic Park with goals by Kalifatidis and left back Margaritis Hagegmanouil.

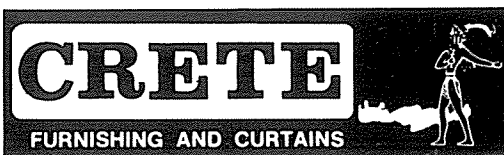

And so, going into the new National League in 1977, Hellas was expected to do better than it did — and probably would have, had it not lost the backbone of its team.

After finishing 11th in 1977, Hellas appointed a new coach, Dave McLaren, who had led Sydney Hakoah to success in NSW. McLaren recruited centre-back Stuart Baxter and goalkeeper John Hansen from Sweden, Bertie Lutton from Hakoah, Sammy Wright from England and George Campbell from Aberdeen, and promoted George Christopoulos from the reserves. All that new talent lifted Hellas to third place in 1978, behind West Adelaide Hellas and Sydney Hakoah.

Disaster struck in 1979 when the National League deducted three competition points from Hellas after four rounds of the championship because new left-back Tony Turner had not been properly cleared by his former English club. Jack Reilly switched to Juventus on a free transfer after a clash with McLaren, who stood down a week later and was replaced by Duncan McKay, the one-time Scottish international who had starred with Melbourne Croatia. McKay quit and was replaced by John Margaritis. But among all that turmoil, and despite a resurgence under Margaritis, Hellas slumped to last place and had to apply for re-admittance to the NSL. One bright aspect of an otherwise disastrous season was the gradual emergence of Alan Davidson, recruited from Altona City, as a national star.

He was joined at Hellas the following year, by another Australian youth international, Steve Blair from Albion Rovers (Vic). Both were to go on and play regularly with the senior Socceroos. Davidson, of course, was signed up in 1985 by English club Nottingham Forest — but Hellas has by no means given up hope of getting him back.

Branko Buljevic, one of the all-time greats of Australian soccer, and a member of the Socceroo team that played in the 1974 World Cup finals, was recruited from Heidelberg-Alexander in late 1979 for $20,000.

Vince Bannon was lured from Frankston City and Alun Evans, formerly of mighty Liverpool, joined from English club Walsall.

They delivered the goods in the following two seasons, with Hellas finishing third in 1980, behind Hakoah and Alexander; and second in 1981 behind Hakoah again.

Charlie Egan, in his first Australian season, won the Victorian Rothmans Medal with State League club Frankston City in 1981, and was snapped up by Hellas for the following season, which started brilliantly as Hellas beat Alexander 2-1 in the Ampol Cup final, with Egan scoring the winning goal.

Charlie Egan showing his top playing skills.

But it was to be a year of mistakes. Hellas, believing it could cash in on the publicity, hired globetrotting Scot Tommy Docherty, who earlier had coached Sydney Olympic. Docherty and Margaritis were to work together but Margaritis promptly quit, and Hellas had to make do with sixth place at the end of the 1982 season.

With former Soccerroo boss Rale Rasic as the new coach, 1983 started with a loud fanfare. Rasic, shrewd as always on the transfer market, recruited the players who were to give the club its greatest successes in the NSL — Ken Murphy from Croatia, Doug Brown from Preston-Makedonia, Bobby Russell from Adelaide City, Oscar Crino from Tung Sing in Hong Kong and John Yzendoorn from Heidelberg-Alexander.

But it proved difficult to mould the new players into an affective unit and, with Hellas languishing in 12th position after 13 rounds, the club and Rasic parted company, and Len McKendry, then coach of Green Gully, was hired to replace him.

With all that talent at his disposal, McKendry set about moulding a team unit which, in 1984, topped the Southern Division ladder and won the national final against Sydney Olympic.

For the record, here are the details of that two-leg final:

In Melbourne: South Melbourne Hellas 2 (Egan 43rd & 64th) Sydney Olympic 1 (Koussas 5th) at Olympic Park. Crowd about 10,000.

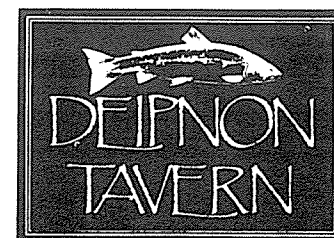

Hellas: Laumets — Russell, Blair, Yzendoorn, Postecoglou — Davidson, Crino, Halford, Murphy — Brown, Egan.

Olympic: Meier — Dakos — Coady, Jennings — Phillips, Rogers, Raskopoulos, Katholos — Patikas (Kalantzis 7th), Koussas (Theodorakopoulos 65th), Soper.

IN Sydney: South Melbourne Hellas 2 (Crino 10th, Yzendoorn 18th) Sydney Olympic 1 (Theodorakopoulos 34th) at St. George Stadium. Crowd 11,221.

Hellas: Laumets — Russell, Blair, Yzendoorn, Postecoglou — Davidson, Crino (Kanesoulis 50th), Halford, Murphy — Egan, Brown.

Olympic: Meier — Dakos — Rogers (Koussas 66th), Coady — Phillips, Raskopoulos, Katholos, Jennings — Soper, Theodorakopoulos, Kalantzis.

Hellas may have won the championship again in 1985, had it not been for injuries.

Having finished on top of the ladder, Hellas entered the finals without Angie Postecoglou and then lost Garry McDowall and John Yzendoorn due to injuries. Hellas lost 0-1 to Juventus in extra time and then on penalties to Preston-Makedonia after the teams had drawn 4-4 after extra time.

Hellas now is in a rebuilding phase, having lost Oscar Crino to Anorthosis of Cyprus, and also John Yzendoorn who decided no longer to play for us. Coach John Margaritis, who led Juventus to the 1985 national championship, no doubt will come up with the rights answers to make 1986 once more the year of Hellas.

Hellas's longest-serving presidents, Sam Papasavas (left), now chairman of the National Soccer League, and the late Theo Marmaras (right).

OUR COACH 1986

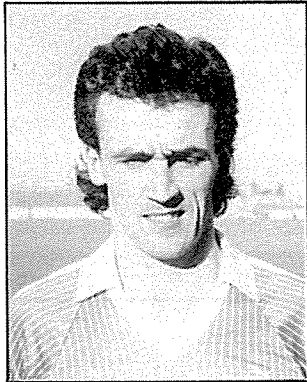

I am happy and delighted that I have returned to Hellas.

My disappointment for not being able to build up the team to make the finals in the Buffalo Cup is great.

I found it difficult to put the team together in such a short time and of course that distressed me, but I have faced this situation before and I am optimistic we will become an unbeatable force in the League.

We will have success this year and I would like to ask the understanding of the supporters, as well as the Greek media and rest assure that it is only a matter of time before our team will be one to be proud of.

Thank you
JOHN MARGARITIS
